This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

PREFACE

Books and references followed by a call number, "Law library" or N. Y. S. L." are in the New York state library. Pamphlets and books th a class number but no book number have not yet been added to e card catalogue; those lacking both class and book number have not en personally examined.

Abbreviations have been used for other libraries in which books and erences were examined as follows:

Mass.	Massachusetts state library
B. P. L.	Boston public library
Harv.	Harvard university library

l other abbreviations are selfexplanatory. Volume and page number e separated by a colon; e. g. 11 : 319 means v. 11, p. 319.

Books analyzed are not elsewhere entered in full; municipal monopo-s, patents and reports of law suits have not been included. The bliography is chiefly confined to publications between 1895 and 1899, t a few 1900 publications have been added.

BIOGRAPHY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

PREFACE

This list is intended as an aid in selecting children's books for libraries and also as a guide to parents and teachers. It is chiefly confined to books for children under 16 years old but as the age for which any book is suited depends on individual development some books intended for older readers are included. For high school girls and boys who wish more extended reading, some of the "American men of letters" series and more of the "Heroes of the nations" series than here included, such as Nelson, Gustavus Adolphus, Pericles, Theodoric, Cicero and Henry of Navarre, are recommended. With a few exceptions the Abbott biographic histories, though entertaining and containing a certain amount of desirable information, are omitted as too highly colored. But few of the many biographies published by educational firms for school use are included, as they are usually abridged or otherwise adapted to class work.

The selection is purposely broad in order to cover as wide a field as possible with material suitable for all ages and to include information about books often quoted. As an aid in choosing from so large a number, a single star is used to designate books above the average and two stars to single out the best books in the list.

The letters a, b, c, have been prefixed to author's name to indicate broadly to what age a book is best adapted: a 12 to 16 years, b 8 to 12 years, c under 8 years.

Unsigned notes are by the compiler; sources of other notes are given whether condensed or quoted exactly. References following notes are to more extended reviews and notices.

ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviations following main entries refer to the libraries in which the books were consulted. Call numbers (i. e. class and book number) are given for all books in the New York state library even though the edition differs from that described in the list; but class number only is given for books in the traveling collection. Books marked e have been personally examined, while e shows that the edition examined differs from that entered in the list. Volume and page numbers are separated by a colon; e. g. 16:114 means v. 16, p. 114.

Abbreviations not selfexplanatory are as follows:

PARTIAL LIST

FRENCH GOVERNMENT SERIALS

IN AMERICAN LIBRARIES

Prepared by the

A. L. A. COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN DOCUMENTS

PREFACE

This list originated in a suggestion made to the foreign documents committee some years ago by Mr Clement W. Andrews, and is the direct outcome of his own work. It was not at first proposed, nor has it since been attempted, to compile an exhaustive bibliography of French documents. The aim has been simply to produce a title list of such serials found in certain American libraries. The scope of the work is defined in its title — "A partial list of French government serials" — and nothing more than this should be looked for in it. Among important publications excluded are the legislative proceedings of the several revolutionary assemblies, those of the consulate and the empire, and the annual financial reports (comptes) of the several departments. Other omissions will be readily observed.

Yet to compile even a partial list of this nature involves an amount of labor surprisingly disproportionate to the result. Librarians will be among the first to admit this; and, since the list was undertaken primarily on their behalf, the foreign documents committee hopes for indulgence from a portion, at least, of its critics. That there are discrepancies in the work, none can know so well as its compilers. The latter are aware also of a defect particularly hard to eliminate from a cooperative list like the present—want of complete uniformity in the entries. It has not been attempted to group all the different titles of the same serial under a single heading, but to bring together under one heading those titles which have changed while the volume numbering remains consecutive; when an alteration of title coincides with a new series of volume numbers, the changed title has been adopted as a heading. The committee hopes that the connection between related entries has been made clear by means of notes and references; if in spite of defects, the list proves serviceable, the sole purpose in compiling it will have been fulfilled.

The thanks of the committee are heartily extended to those who have assisted by suggestions and corrections, and to those who have indicated which documents are in their own libraries. To Mr Andrews and Miss Adelaide R. Hasse the committee is specially indebted. To Mr Andrews's personal efforts, both in collecting material and in arranging for publication what he had brought together, completion of the work is in large measure due. Second only to that of Mr Andrews is the service rendered by Miss Hasse. To her long continued assistance, in transcribing, compiling, revising and editing, is due much of such value as the list may possess. The director of the New York state library, too, has placed the committee deeply in his debt, not only by publishing the list as one of his library bulletins, but also by allowing type to stand while the proof was being corrected, a period that must have seemed to him unreasonably long.

The chairman's own labors (though he has no desire to disclaim his share of responsibility) have been chiefly confined to the pleasant task of writing these introductory remarks. Even this he might have been inclined to leave in more competent hands were it not that his slight share in the work had left him free to indicate and thank those who have borne its brunt.

Journal officiel de la république française, 1869–1901. Année 1–33. f° & 4°. Par. Quai Voltaire, 31. Un an, 40fr. (Intérieur, Ministère de l')

1789–1810 called Gazette nationale; ou, Moniteur universel; 1811–47, Moniteur universel; 1848–68 title amended to Moniteur universel; journal officiel de la république française; 1869–date, Journal officiel. Année numbering begins 1869.

Le journal officiel est actuellement divisé en cinq parties, avec pagination distinctes: une partie consacrée aux lois, décrets, actes, et documents administratifs (le journal officiel); le compte rendu in extenso des séances du sénat (débats parlementaires du sénat); les documents parlementaires du sénat; le compte rendu in extenso des séances de la chambre des députés (débats parlementaires de la chambre); les documents parlementaires de la chambre.—(Block)

As nearly as the compiler of this item has been able to learn this division did not take place until 1882, the comptes rendus before that date having been published as separate issues under the authority of the several administrations. For instance, the Annales du sénat et de la chambre . . . cover from 1876 to 1882, and continued the Annales de l'assemblée nationale, which covers from 1871 to 1876, and continues the Compte rendu analytique des séances du corps législatif . . . from 1869 to 1870, and so on back until the Procès-verbal of the assemblée nationale constituyante (1789) is reached. These procès-verbaux, of which there are at least 17 different series from 1789 to 1882, form a complement to the Journal officiel, till the merging of the two issues took place, presumably in 1882.

Ces cinq académies n'ont pas eu une existence distincte de 1795 à 1816. La loi du 8 août 1793 avait supprimé toutes les anciennes académies et quand la convention fonda l'institut, le 25 octobre 1795, elle décida qu'il serait divisé en trois classes: 1re Sciences physiques et mathématiques; 2e Sciences morales et politiques; 3e Littérature et beaux-arts. Un arrêté des consuls, rendu le 28 janvier 1803, modifia cette organisation et divisa l'institut en quatre classes: Sciences physiques et mathématiques; Langue et littérature française; Histoire et littérature ancienne; Beaux-arts. Pendant toute cette période, l'institut porta successivement les noms d'Institut national des sciences et arts (1795), d'Institut national de France (1803), d'Institut de France (1806), d'Institut impérial (1811) et d'Institut royal (1814). L'ordonnance du 21 mars 1816 remplaça les dénominations des classes par celles qui subsistent encore aujourd'hui.

1 CLASSE DES SCIENCES MATHÉMATIQUES ET PHYSIQUES

Mémoires, 1799-1806. 6v.
Notice des travaux de la classe des sciences mathématiques et physiques, du 2e trimestre an 9 au 1re trimestre an 11.

NEW YORK STATE LIBRARY AND HOME EDUCATION

Scope of library. The state library includes general, sociology, law, medical, education and history libraries and the Library school. Besides the usual work of a great reference library, its field covers compilation of catalogues, bibliographies, indexes, reference lists and other aids and guides for readers not having direct access to the library, lending books to students and promotion of the general library interests of the state.

Use. As the library was founded for the benefit of the people of the whole state, books not readily accessible elsewhere and not so much used at Albany as to make their brief absence from the shelves serious are lent under the rules guarding against loss or undue detention to:

1 Any institution in the University.

2 Any registered public or free library.

3 Responsible heads of state institutions, departments or courts, or to those connected with the state government and needing books for use in their official work.

4 Registered study clubs, extension centers, summer schools or other recognized educational agencies.

5 Any resident of the state making studies or investigations in which he needs the assistance of the state library, provided that his responsibility is known to the library or that he gives satisfactory references or makes a deposit covering the value of the books.

The library recognizes this lending of books to distant points as a very important part of its work and aims to help the largest number possible of those needing its assistance, not only by lending but also by recommending the best books and furnishing, through its home education department devoted specially to such work, printed or manuscript aids to those pursuing studies or courses of reading without a teacher.

Distribution of publications. The library maintains a large exchange list and readily sends corresponding publications in return for those received from all parts of the world; but as a protection against waste, and to enable those really needing state publications to secure them, they are now sent free (preference always being given to New York institutions or citizens) only as follows:

1) to leading libraries at home and abroad which agree to catalogue and preserve them permanently for public use;

2) to educational and scientific institutions engaged in similar work, and sending us their own publications;

3) to individuals who have given us such books, pamphlets, specimens or services as merit recognition by complimentary copies.

To others any publications still in print and accessible are sold at a price covering only cost of printing and postage.

Besides annual department reports and bulletins the state library has for exchange and sale many valuable historical and scientific works as well as bulletins, syllabuses and handbooks not properly classed as annual publications. Detailed information is given in the annotated price list, to be had on request.

Library school. This is carried on in connection with the state library as an essential factor in the new work undertaken by the regents under the reorganization of 1889. The University law makes the regents responsible for the library interests of the state and authorizes the state library to give instruction and assistance in organizing and administering libraries. Students receive from the library staff careful training in library economy, bibliography, cataloguing, classification and other duties of professional librarianship. The Library school handbook [66 pages] gives full information of the requirements for admission, course and expenses.

Home education department. This includes promotion, sympathetic assistance and supervision of summer, vacation, evening and correspondence schools and other forms of extension teaching, lectures, university extension courses, study clubs, lyceums, debating societies, literary clubs and other agencies for promoting and extending more widely opportunities and facilities for education to those unable to attend the usual teaching institutions.

Study clubs of five or more members devoting not less than 10 weeks to one subject may be registered as entitled to advice and help from the study club division, to traveling libraries and books from the state library, to photographs, lantern slides and other illustrative material. The reports enable the various organizations to profit by each other's experience and thus avoid dissipating energy in working out problems already solved.

The most potent factors in home education are: 1) putting the best reading within reach of all citizens by traveling libraries and annotated book lists; 2) aid given in organizing new and increasing efficiency of established local libraries by the public libraries division, through which the state yearly expends about $60,000 for the benefit of free libraries. This division is devoted to promoting general library interests of the state and in all practicable ways assisting communities willing to do their part in providing the best reading for their citizens.

Bulletins. No. 1–7, 9–11, 13, 15, Summary and index of legislation. These are minutely classified annual summaries of new laws passed by all the states, followed by a full alphabetic index of specific topics, and have been published since 1890.

No. 8, State finance statistics. A bulletin giving a comparative summary of state finance statistics for 1890 and 1895 was published in March 1897. There will be a similar bulletin for 1900 and each succeeding fifth year.

No. 12, Trend of legislation in the United States.

No. 14, Taxation of corporations in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

These bulletins may be had postpaid for $1 a volume consisting of five numbers or for 25 cents a copy, except no. 8 which is 10 cents, no. 11, 50 cents and no. 12, 5 cents. Volume 1 began in 1890, volume 2 in 1895, and volume 3 with number 11 in 1899. Subscriptions for future numbers or orders for back numbers should be addressed to State Library, Albany, and checks or money orders be made payable to University of the State of New York.

Card indexes. A consolidated card index of state legislation, beginning with 1890, makes it easy to refer to laws on any subject in any state within the past 10 years. As fast as advance sheets of new laws are received they are summarized on cards and classified. A special library on comparative legislation is being collected, which is supplemented with catalogues and indexes This makes it possible to furnish promptly summaries of recent legislation on any subject.

Research. The library with its 325,000 volumes affords unusual advantages for research. Its collections in law, public documents, statistics, political science, economics, administration and allied subjects are unusually valuable and are being rapidly increased. Students of public law or economics who are unable to come to the library may have bibliographies prepared and information gathered for them by trained assistants. A charge is made for work of this kind covering the salary value of the time spent on it, usually ranging from 50c to $1 an hour; but such work is always assigned to the least expensive assistant competent to do it satisfactorily. Requests for research on these subjects should be addressed Sociology Librarian, State Library.

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1901

WITH NOTES

PREFATORY NOTE

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1901, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the state. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries prepared to buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy of careful consideration by libraries prepared to buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge their resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the New York State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to the smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to the schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here, which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study, to justify their purchase by the school.

Copies of this list may be obtained for 10 cents from the New York State Library, Albany N. Y.

Houghton $1.50
Deals with negro problem. A dramatic portrayal of results of injustice and prejudice.

a Churchill, Winston. The Crisis. Macmillan $1.50 Considered as an expression of that passionate emotion which stirred the south to war and as a picture of social conditions which the war destroyed, it is almost an unqualified success. Nation

a Crawford, F. M. Marietta. Macmillan $1.50
Tale of glass makers of Murano, 15th century. Healthy, straightforward romance, with plenty of adventure, ending as it should, and told in good English without straining after phrases. Athenaeum

c Dunn, Mrs M. B. 'Lias's Wife. (Page's Commonwealth Ser.)
Scene, an island off Maine coast.

Erskine, Payne. When the Gates Lift up their Heads.
Little $1.50
Love story of somewhat startling plot, involving relations of north and south and negro problem. Scene, North Carolina mountains.

Frothingham, E. B. The Turn of the Road.
Houghton $1.50
Story of counter influences of love and ambition. Main interest in character of hero.

Fuller, Anna. Katherine Day. Putnam $1.50
Deliberately told story of a New England girl's life from 7 to 30. Interest in character; little plot.

Garland, Hamlin. Her Mountain Lover. Century $1.50
Well drawn study of a typical frontiersman of manly qualities in contact with modern society. Author develops unexpected humor.

Contains also The Pursuit of the Piano; A Circle in the Water; The Magic of a Voice; A Difficult Case.

c Jewett, S.. O. The Tory Lover. Houghton $1.50

Miss Jewett puts boldly to sea with Capt. Paul Jones and tells a stirring story, full of action and incident, quite out of her customary field. Saturday Review

Jordan, E. G. Tales of the Cloister. (Portrait Coll. of Short Stories) Harper net $1.15

Light stories, free from sectarianism, of life in a western convent school. The picture of the nuns is full of human sweetness.

a Kipling, Rudyard. Kim. Doubleday $1.50

Adventures of a preternaturally shrewd Irish-Indian boy, "the little friend of all the world," in company with a mystical llama.

b Lefèvre, Edwin. Wall Street Stories. McClure $1.25

Stories of business life.

Wall street, though commercial, is none the less romantic; it is a battlefield and these stories have caught its spirit and interpreted its moods. Bookman

Long, J: L. The Prince of Illusion. Century $1.50

Short stories on widely different themes but with a common delicate individuality in the telling.

McIlwraith, J. N. Curious Career of Roderick Campbell. Houghton $1.50

Romance of adventure in Jacobite uprising of 1745 and during French and Indian war in colonial New York and Canada.

Mitchell, S. W. Circumstance. Century $1.50
Chief figure an adventuress who temporarily complicates life for a highly respectable Philadelphia family.

Romantic and fictitious adventure, perilous in ascending scale. Time, the critical moment when Henry 4 renounced protestantism for the French crown.

c Scollard, Clinton. The Son of a Tory. Badger $1.50 Desperate adventures in Mohawk valley during Revolution. Battle of Oriskany and siege of Fort Stanwix described.

c Spearman, F. H. Held for Orders. McClure $1.50
Vigorous railroad stories, full of adventure, recognizing honest manly attention to duty as the forerunner of heroism in emergency.

a Van Dyke, Henry. The Ruling Passion. Scribner $1.50
Eight stories of ruling passions shown in the lives of simple people. Scenes in Canada and Adirondacks.

Vielé, H. K. The Last of the Knickerbockers. Stone $1.50
Romance of social situations in New York. Up to date in slang and satire yet not unpoetic in portrayal of relations between past and present.

Ward, Mrs E. . S. (Phelps). The Successors of Mary the First. Houghton $1.50
Humorous tale of woes with incompetent servants.

Watson, John. "Ian Maclaren" pseud. Young Barbarians Dodd net $1.35
Doings in a Scottish boys boarding school.

Wharton, Edith. Crucial Instances. Scribner $1.50
Subtle and extremely clever stories, original in plot, displaying an unerring instinct for the right word and a rare sense of form.

a Wilkins, M. . E. The Portion of Labor. Harper $1.50
Story dominated by questions of capital and labor, of a lovable girl's development in a New England factory town.

Wyatt, Edith. Every One his own Way. McClure $1.50
Instantaneous photographs of Chicago types, accenting contrasts between simple, wholesome emotions of commonplace people and the attitudes of dyspeptic culture. Abrupt and direct style.

JUVENILE BOOKS

293 Foster, M. H. & Cummings, M. H. Asgard Stories. Silver 36c
Tales from Norse mythology retold for children.

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1902

WITH NOTES

To the Librarian

PREFATORY NOTE

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1902, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries prepared to buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy of careful consideration by libraries prepared to buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge their resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the New York State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system. Serial numbers of the Library of Congress printed catalogue cards are given in note type, for the convenience of libraries wishing to order them.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to the smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to the schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study to justify their purchase by the school.

Copies of this list may be obtained for 10 cents from the New York State Library, Albany N. Y.

b Bennett, John. Barnaby Lee. Century $1.50

2-22477 Boy's adventures with pirates and in New Amsterdam at period of English capture, 1664. Local color carefully studied. Among characters are Peter Stuyvesant and Governor Calvert of Maryland.

b Chase, J. A. Mayken: a Child's Story of the Netherlands in the 16th Century, McClurg net $1.20

2-23838 Adventures at court and during siege of Leyden, of little daughter of William of Orange. Main characters historical.

Connolly, J. B. Jeb Hutton; the Story of a Georgia Boy. Scribner net $1.20

2-22177 Adventures on a government dredge on the Savannah river, and development of a fine friendship between two young men.

Crothers, S: McC. Miss Muffet's Christmas Party. Houghton net $1

2-26753 Her guests are book friends: Alice, the Cheshire cat, Little Bo-Peep Aladdin, Rollo etc. Children may sometimes miss the point of bright characterizations, but will enjoy the party.

Dix, B. M. A Little Captive Lad. Macmillan $1.50

2-23906 Cavalier's child, adopted by his Roundhead half brother. Very well studied and written. Perhaps oversomber for children, though ending happily.

c Earle, M. T. The Flag on the Hill-top. Houghton net 90c

2-22172 Well told story of a boy's endeavor to be loyal both to his southern sympathies and his unionist guardian during War of Rebellion.

French, Allen. Sir Marrok: a Tale of the Days of King Arthur. (St Nicholas Books) Century net $1

2-22659 Warfare of good against evil in tale of knightly valor and sorcery overcome.

Gates, Eleanor. Biography of a Prairie Girl. Century $1.50

2-23907 Graphic picture of child life on a Dakota farm. Its adventures should attract children but its artificial form by which names and conversations are almost excluded may repel.

a Gordon, C: W: "Ralph Connor" pseud. Glengarry School Days. Revell $1.25

2-28287 Connected stories of school interests, pranks, outdoor expeditions, etc. on the Canadian frontier.

Greene, Homer. Pickett's Gap. Macmillan net $1.25

2-25048 Story of two railways fighting for control of a mountain pass owned by the boy hero's grandfather.

c Hopkins, W: J. The Sandman: His Farm Stories. Page net $1.20

2-20816 For young children. Notable for simplicity and skilful recognition of child's love of details.

Howells, W: D. Flight of Pony Baker. Harper net $1.25

2-23296 Delightful to adults in its humorous photography of boy's mind. Much more interesting to boys than A Boy's Town.

c Kipling, Rudyard. Just So Stories.
Doubleday net $1.20

2-23595 Surprising tales of the origins of things familiar told with repetitions dear to childhood. Illustrated by author.

a London, Jack. Cruise of the Dazzler. (St Nicholas Books) Century net $1

2-22486 School trials, street fighting, San Francisco harbor pirates and shipwreck furnish excitement in a wholesome and well written boy's story.

Ray, A. C. Nathalie's Chum. Little net $1.20

2-22661 Has characteristics of her earlier stories—high ideals and brighter conversation but not greater probability than average girls book.

Smith, N. A. Three Little Marys. Houghton net 85c

2-23087 Scotch Mairi, English Molly and Irish Maureen Bawn are the heroines of three pretty stories.

c True, J: P. On Guard! Against Tory and Tarleton. (The Stuart Schuyler Stories) Little net $1.20

2-22662 Major Stuart Schuyler's adventures during Greene's retreat through the Carolinas. Follows Morgan's Men. Good characterization.

A SELECTION OF

CATALOGUERS REFERENCE BOOKS

NEW YORK STATE LIBRARY

PREFACE

This is a revised and enlarged edition of Selection of Reference Books for Use of Cataloguers in Finding Full Names issued January 1898 as Bibliography bulletin 5.

The selection is made almost entirely from the author side to guide in identifying books and finding full names. Some useful books included in the earlier list have been omitted because superseded for ordinary use by more complete or better arranged works. With few exceptions subject bibliographies have not been included but these may often be helpful, also city directories, and many general collections of literature, anthologies, books of quotations, etc. having sketches of authors or author indexes. A few works not given in this list may be found in Charles H. Hull's article on "Biographical Dictionaries" in Johnson's Universal Cyclopaedia (1894-95) 1:629.

Dictionaries of special subjects are useful in selecting subject headings for a dictionary catalogue but they have not as a rule been included unless containing biographic material, but may be found in Alice B. Kroeger's Guide to the Study and Use of Reference Books, which also contains many helpful notes.

Books marked with * are used in the course in elementary cataloguing in the New York State Library School. Many books in the list are also used in the bibliography and reference courses. As the list is primarily for the use of our cataloguers and the Library School, only books in the New York State Library are included. Absence of call number shows that a book has been ordered but not yet received. Books for which class number only is given have not yet been entered in the new card catalogue. After the list of most used general cyclopedias and dictionaries, other books have been grouped in an alphabetic arrangement of countries and special subjects.

Prices are not given in every case. Those easily found in current records and also many original prices and approximate present prices have been included. Net prices are indicated by n, subscription prices by subs. For current periodical publications the yearly subscription price is generally given. The following are the forms used for foreign prices with their approximate American equivalents:

		cents			cents
£	pound	487	kreutzer (Austrian)		.5
/	shilling	24	krone; pl. kronen (Austrian)		20
c	centime	.2	l	lira	19
ct	cent (Dutch)	.4	m	mark	24
d	penny	2	ngr	neugroschen	2.5
f	gulde (Dutch florijn)	40	öre		.25
fl	florin (Austrian)	49	peseta; pl. pesetas		19
fr	franc	19	pf	pfennig	.25
gr	groschen	2.3	rthlr	reichsthaler	100
kr	krona (Swedish)	27	sk	skilling	1
kr	krone (Danish and Norwegian)	27	spd	speciedaler	91
			thlr	thaler	72

In compiling the list Charles H. Hull's article on "Helps for Cataloguers in Finding Full Names" (Library Journal, Jan.–Feb. 1889, 14:7–20) has proved specially valuable. We are also greatly indebted to the cordial cooperation of the numerous librarians to whom the original list was sent for suggestions. The replies received were most helpful and nearly all the books suggested have been included in the present list.

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1903

PREFATORY NOTE

To the Librarian

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1903, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries that can buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including some reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy careful consideration by libraries that can buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system. For convenience of libraries wishing to use them, Library of Congress printed catalogue card serial numbers are given in note type; also references to reviews. A short list of older books in materially altered editions, or transferred to other publishers, is appended.

The following from the Journal of New Jersey libraries, October 1903, applies equally to New York:

Look at books before buying them, if possible. Advertisements and reviews are both untrustworthy, especially where any library's special needs are to be considered.

Information about importing books, secondhand books, and even about new books which are under consideration, is always cheerfully given, when asked, by the larger libraries in the State.

Do not buy encyclopedias while in process of publication. They are aggravations until complete, and can always be bought more cheaply than they are at first offered a few months after publication. Read Eugene Field's story of the "Cyclopedy," and take warning. The same rule holds as to all subscription books. Avoid them. Shun books in parts. They cost more than they are worth to a library. They turn up in secondhand stores a few months after completion at low prices. Deluded purchasers find them white elephants and sell them. Finest Orations, Noblest Essays, Royal Flim Flams, Huge Anthologies, and the like all come to the secondhand man. Get them of him, if you must. In a small library they are generally almost useless. In subscription books, cases like this are not uncommon. Maspero wrote several large and learned volumes, in French, on Egypt and Chaldea. They were translated and published in three or four volumes in England, costing libraries in this country about $5 each. An American publisher reprints them in 12 small volumes with a few additional colored cuts, on heavier paper and in larger type and offers them through agents for $84—and libraries buy them!

Do not buy "sets" or complete editions of authors. Buy the volumes you need and as you need them. A complete set always includes several volumes you do not need.

Specify the edition you wish of standard books when you can, unless you find a bookseller able and willing to select them wisely for you.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study to justify their purchase by the school.

Nation, 78:69

745 Wilson, V. T. Free-hand Lettering. Wiley $1

3-29281 Treatise on plain lettering from the practical standpoint for use in engineering schools and colleges. Illustrated.
L. F. Day's Lettering in Ornament, Scribner $2 n., is an amply illustrated study of the decorative use of lettering, past, present and possible; it follows his Alphabets, Old and New (1899), which deals only with forms of letters, not their ornamental application in art. T. C. Brown's excellent Letters and Lettering (1902) deals with various matters treated more fully in these volumes, and would perhaps be the best single designer's handbook if library could buy but one.
Wilson, Engineering Record, 49:32; Day, Nation, 76:292

749 c Wheeler, Mrs Candace (Thurber). Principles of Home Decoration. Doubleday $1.80 n

3-4677 Deals with theory and specific applications, art being understood to imply both appropriateness and beauty.
Nation, 77:158

750 Van Dyke, J: C: Meaning of Pictures. Scribner $1 n

3-4678 Columbia University lectures at Metropolitan Museum. Aims to train popular understanding to nicer and more intelligent appreciation. Suggestive, not didactic. 30 excellent reproductions illustrate text. Deals less definitely with specific pictures and schools than Witt's How to Look at Pictures (1902), being concerned with them rather as illustrating principles.
Nation, 76:500; Dial, 34:406

759.1 Way, T. R. & Dennis, G. R. Art of James McNeill Whistler. (Bell 10/6 n) Macmillan $3 n

4-487 No adequate treatment of Whistler has yet appeared. This volume deals almost solely with his art, is illustrated by over 50 halftones and has temporary value. Recollections and Impressions of James A. McNeill Whistler by A. J. Eddy, Lippincott $2 n., is a collection of anecdotes and miscellaneous data by an extravagant admirer, with 12 excellent plates.

JUVENILE BIOGRAPHY

Horne, O. B. & Scobey, K. L: Stories of Great Artists. (Eclectic School Readings) Amer. Bk Co. 40c

3-11816 Attempts to interest children in art through simple tales, founded on facts, about Raphael, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, Corot, Landseer and others. Illustrated. Picture Stories from the Great Artists,
3-14257 by M. R. Cady and J. M. Dewey, (Art Reader No. 1) Richardson 50c, (759) is more elementary, intended for children who have just learned to read. Texts and illustrations relate to the work of Rosa Bonheur, Van Dyck, Landseer and Murillo. Art Studies for Schools, by 3-7172 A. M. Von Rydingsvard, Flanagan $1, (759) discards the element of fiction, giving some facts about each of 68 artists ranging from Cimabue to John Sargent, with simple criticism or explanation of an example of his work. Its halftone reproductions, though not evenly good, are somewhat better than in either of the others.

Scott. Barnes, James. The Giant of Three Wars: a Life of General Winfield Scott. (Heroes of our Army) Appleton $1 n

3-22117 Simple and straightforward, but not childish in style.
Dial, 35:430

b Victoria. Tappan, E. M. In the Days of Queen Victoria. (Makers of England) Lee 80c n

3-14845 The story of the queen's life here told for girls can hardly fail both to entertain and inspire to noble living.
Dial, 35:430

JUVENILE FICTION

c Barbour, R. H: Weatherby's Inning. Appleton $1.25 n

3-22513 Story of baseball and a young man's struggle against untoward circumstances in a small New England college.

Critic, 43:573

b Hill, Elizabeth. My Wonderful Visit. Scribner $1.20 n

3-25201 Record of a little city girl's enchanting, never-to-be-forgotten week on a farm. Nation, 77:449
Realistic in picture of country life of the older type, and no less true in portraying an imaginative child nature.

Hopkins, W: J. The Sandman: more Farm Stories. Page $1.20 n

3-22515 Simple stories of everyday life on a farm, like the Sandman stories published last year, which have proved extremely popular with children too young to read for themselves.

Leonard, M. F. How the Two Ends Met. (20th Century Juveniles) Crowell 60c n

3-19078 A happy little school girl by her winsome ways brings the rich and poor families of a city block into friendly relations.

c Packard, Winthrop. The Young Ice Whalers. Houghton $1.20 n

3-22109 Henty's heroes scarcely rival these Massachusetts boys in perils or achievements, but the movement is more lifelike, the style better, and the information about arctic life and conditions really valuable and interesting. Excellent illustrations.
Dial, 35:431; Spec. 91:739; Acad. 65:646

Reynard the Fox, adapted by E. L. Smythe. (Eclectic School Readings) Amer. Bk Co. 30c

READING LIST ON ETHICS

PREFACE

The aim has been to make the following list suitable for the beginner in philosophy and to include in it some of the notable books in the literature of ethics. So far as possible each title was chosen on the authority of reliable critics, and it is attempted to present under each subject a treatment which shall be at once temperate, authoritative and of recognized merit. The classification of the theories follows that given by J: H: Muirhead in his Elements of Ethics; the division " Field of Ethics," was suggested by Professor Palmer's book with the same title, but in the main the grouping follows the Decimal Classification; arrangement of theories under the several headings is chronologic.

FRANK HAYDEN WHITMORE

ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviations following main entries refer to the libraries in which the books were consulted or to the sources from which entries were taken. Call numbers (i.e. class and book number) are given for all books in the New York State Library even though the edition differs from that described in the list; class number only is given for books in the traveling collection. Books marked e have been personally examined, while e indicates that the edition examined is not the same as the one entered in the list.

The source of critical notes is given, whether quoted exactly or given in substance; unsigned notes are by the compiler. Volume and page numbers are separated by a colon: e. g. 3:145 means vol. 3, p. 145.

Abbreviations not self-explanatory are as follows:

B. P. L.	Boston Public Library
Bowdoin	Bowdoin College Library
Columbia	Columbia University Library
Harvard	Harvard University Library
Internat. Jour. of Ethics	International Journal of Ethics
Sidgwick	Sidgwick. Outlines of the History of Ethics. 1886

BIBLIOGRAPHY

INTRODUCTORY MANUALS

Mackenzie, John Stuart. Manual of Ethics, designed for the use of students. Ed. 3. 456p. D. Lond. 1897. Clive 6/16. (Univ. Corres. College, Tutorial Ser.) Bowdoin 170.2 M191 e

Sold also by Hinds, $1.50.

Mr Mackenzie's Manual of Ethics is not only a very good textbook for beginners, it is also likely to interest the general reader, and ought not to be neglected even by the specialist. It contains full and valuable references on every important question. and gives in an appendix "Hints on further reading" which ought to prove very useful to the genuine student. G. F. Stout in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1893, 4:120

Muirhead, John Henry. Elements of Ethics, an introduction to moral philosophy. 239p.D. N.Y. 1892. Scribner $1. (Univ. Extension Manuals) Bowdoin 171 M89 e

Published also by Murray, 3/.

This is the first attempt made in this country [England] to state in a popular way the main ethical doctrines of the English idealists. To all except experts the Prolegomena of the late Professor Green is a book seven times sealed. . . and Professor Caird's ethical views are buried in his commentaries. It was with the hope of placing these authors within reach of "the beginner in philosophy," together with the greater writers of whom they are exponents, that Mr Muirhead wrote his book. Henry Jones in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1892, 3:113

FIELD OF ETHICS

Esthetics and ethics

Palmer, George Herbert. The Glory of the Imperfect, an address given at the first commencement of the Woman's College of Western Reserve University, Cleveland O. 1891. 29p.D. Bost. 1891. Heath 25c. Bowdoin e

Sketches in a clear and convincing way the meaning of the moral life and shows that in human life "completeness of the parts," that which constitutes beauty, is never reached.

Santayana, George. The Sense of Beauty, being the outlines of aesthetic theory. 275p. D. N.Y. 1896. Scribner $1.50. Bowdoin 701 Sa5 e

Distinguishes between the moral demand for what ought to be "ideal perfection" and "the perception of beauty" being "the possession of that which is as it ought to be — real perfection." J. D. Logan in Philosophical Rev. Mar. 1897, 6:212

Sharp, Frank Chapman. The Aesthetic Element in Morality and its Place in a Utilitarian Theory of Morals. 131p.O. N.Y. 1893. Macmillan 75c. Bowdoin e

An interesting attempt to determine the grounds of our esthetic judgments in regard to human conduct from the point of view of utilitarianism. The great defect of his essay is the almost total absence of sympathetic or historical point of view. John Watson in Philosophical Rev. July 1893, 2:499

Evolution and ethics

Huxley, Thomas Henry. The Romanes Lecture 1893; Evolution and Ethics, delivered in the Sheldonian Theatre, May 18, 1893. 57p. O. Lond. 1893. Macmillan 2/. Bowdoin 171.7 H98 e

Published also by Humboldt, 15c, and in Huxley's Collected Essays, v.9, Appleton $1.25.

Its interest lies chiefly in the fact that though written by one of the most enthusiastic of our biologic evolutionists, it entirely repudiates the idea that ethics can be founded on a mere study of the evolutionary process of animal life. J: S. Mackenzie in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1893, 4:126

Schurman, Jacob Gould. Ethical Import of Darwinism. 264p. D. Lond. 1888. Williams & Norgate 5/ Bowdoin 171.7 Sch8 e

Published also by Scribner, $1.50.

The object of the present volume is to distinguish between science and speculation in the application of Darwinism to morals. The results of evolutionary science in the domain of matter and in the domain of life are everywhere taken for granted; the philosophic and, more especially, the ethical theories currently associated with them are subjected to the most searching scrutiny I have been able to make. Preface, p. 8

Law and ethics

Hibben, John Grier. Relation of Ethics to Jurisprudence. (see Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Jan. 1894, 4:133–60)
Bowdoin 170.5 In8 e

Attempts "in the first place, to define accurately the proper spheres of the two sciences; secondly, to prove that the genesis of law discloses natural limitations of sovereign power which are ethical in their character; thirdly, to indicate the indirect and impalpable influence of existing ethical sentiment in creating, annulling and reforming law; and, finally, to examine several contributions to the solution of this problem from the sphere of international law." Book, p. 134

Holland, Thomas Erskine. Laws as Rules of Human Action. (see his Elements of Jurisprudence. 1895. p. 23–37)
Bowdoin 340 e

Published by Clarendon Press (7th ed.) 402p. O, 10/6; also by Macmillan $3.

Insists on the separation of ethics and jurisprudence. Grouping the moral sciences under the head of ethic the author dismisses them as foreign to the subject of jurisprudence.

Political economy and ethics

Ely, Richard Theodore. Ethics and Economics. (see his Social Aspects of Christianity. 1889. p. 115–32)
Bowdoin 261.6 El9 e

Published by Crowell, 132p.D, 90c.

Points out that the course of economic thought is largely in the direction of what ought to be and that the ethical conception of political economy harmonizes with recent tendencies in ethics.

Wright, Carroll Davidson. Relation of Political Economy to the Labor Question. 58p. S. Bost. 1882. Williams 60c. o.p?.
Bowdoin 331 W931 e

Emphasizes the moral side of economics.

Reviewed in Nation, 31 Aug. 1882, 35:184

Religion and ethics

Fiske, John. Through Nature to God. 194p. D. Bost. 1899. Houghton $1. Bowdoin 210 F54 e

The adjustment of the human soul to God is the highest form of life: it implies a real relation of realities, a real adjustment of inner to outer, unless the principle of evolution, found valid in the sphere of the seen world, must not be extended to the sphere where one side of the relation lies beyond human knowledge. Professor Fiske contends that this extension is inevitable. This is the passage through nature to God. R. A. Wright in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Ap. 1900, 10:406

Palmer, George Herbert. Ethics and Religion. (see his Field of Ethics. 1901. p. 135–201) Bowdoin 170 P18 e

Published by Houghton, 213p. D, $1.10 n.

Traces the affinities and divergences between ethics and religion. By itself ethics is imperfect and in order to become effective in life needs to be supplemented, in its finite field, by the infinite — religion.

Watson, John. Christianity and Idealism, the Christian ideal of life in its relations to the Greek and Jewish ideals and to modern philosophy. 216p. D. N.Y. 1897. Macmillan $1.25. (Univ. of Cal. Philosophical Union. Publications, v. 2) Bowdoin 201 W33 e

Professor Watson's thesis in chapter 1 — and this may perhaps be regarded as the main contention of the entire work — is that morality and religion are indissolubly connected. J. E. Creighton in Philosophical Rev. Sep. 1898, 7:532

HISTORIES

Bigge, Lewis Amherst Selby, ed. British Moralists; being selections from writers principally of the 18th century. 2v. O. Ox. 1897. Oxford Univ. 18/. Harvard e

American price $4.50.

An introduction of 59 pages outlines the tendencies of British thought of the period.

Guyau, Marie Jean. La morale anglaise contemporaine: morale de l'utilité et d'evolution.–420p. O. Par. 1879. Baillière 7fr 25c. Harvard e

Almost unqualified praise may be given to M. Guyau's chapters of exposition. His account is lucid, pleasant to read and accurate; in fact I do not know where else, even in English, so full and trustworthy an account of English utilitarianism is to be found. In so large a subject there are naturally points on which the reader may dissent from his judgment. F. Pollock in Mind, Ap. 1880, 5:281

Jodl, Friedrich. Geschichte der Ethik in der Neueren Philosophie. 2v. in 1,O. Stuttgart 1882–89. Cotta 10m. Harvard e

An admirable work which gives the first connected account of the history of modern moral philosophy. Paulsen's System of Ethics (1899), p. 179

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole. History of European Morals from Augustus to Charlemagne. 2v. O. N.Y. 1870. Appleton $6. Bowdoin 170.9 L49 e

Mr Lecky's History of European Rationalism is the work which has done more than any other for his immediate reputation and to perpetuate his fame; but hardly less significant was his History of European Morals from Augustus to Charlemagne, which appeared in 1869. Surely something of Mr Lecky's praise of Gibbon's diligence may be credited to his own account, when what he did in four years is compared with what Gibbon did in 24. In this book as in the Rationalism, he had a thesis to maintain. Here it was the intuitive character of morality, and it was maintained at great length, its discussion consuming more than one third of his first volume. John White Chadwick in Warner's Library of the World's Best Literature. 1897. 15:8931

Sidgwick, Henry. Outlines of the History of Ethics for English Readers. 276p. D. Lond. 1886. Macmillan 3/6. (Macmillan's Manuals for Students) Bowdoin 170.9 Si[illegible] e

A revision and expansion of the author's article on "Ethics" in the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The unity of the work is expressed in the qualification of its contents as meant for English readers. It is addressed to a public which may be assumed to wish a knowledge of the larger outlines of speculation on the ideas of right and wrong, good and evil, but which at the same time will probably take faint interest in those moralists whose theories do not form an integral part of the current stock of ethical ideas. William Wallace in Mind, Oct. 1886, 11:570

Stephen, Leslie. History of English Thought in the 18th Century. Ed. 2. 2v. O. N.Y. 1881. Putnam $8. Bowdoin 192 St4 e

It is first of all, as the preface tells, a history of the Deistical movement; but for this it seemed necessary to describe the general theologic tendencies of the time, and, in order to set forth intelligibly the ideas which shaped those tendencies, it seemed desirable, again, to trace their origin in the philosophy of the time and to show their application in other departments of speculation. Mind, Jan. 1877, 2:130

Wedgwood, Julia. The Moral Ideal, a historic study. Ed. 2. 400p. O. Lond. 1889. Paul, T.T. & Co. 9/. Bowdoin e

A scholarly and comprehensive account of ancient ethical history, describing what the author calls the "history of human aspiration" in India, Persia, Greece, Rome and Alexandria. Rich in the literature as well as the philosophy of the period covered.

Wundt, Wilhelm. Facts of the Moral Life, tr. by J. H. Gulliver and E. B. Titchener. 339p. O. Lond. 1897. Sonnenschein 7/6. 170 W96 e

—— Ethical Systems, tr. by M. F. Washburn. 196p. O. Lond. 1897. Sonnenschein 6/. 170 W96 e

These two volumes contain translations of the first two parts of Wundt's System der Ethik as published in revised form in 1892; these two parts being the historical portion of the work, as distinguished from the constructive. S. H. Mellone in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Ap. 1898, 8:382

The characteristic of his ethical system is its comprehensiveness of view. The realization of man's ethical worth in personal and social life, under the Gospel and within the kingdom of Christ, goes out beyond narrow and one sided theories to the completeness of the moral life in all its relations. The appearance of Shaftesbury's Characteristics marks a turning point in the history of English ethical thought. With the generation of moralists that followed, the consideration of abstract rational principles falls into the background, and its place is taken by introspective study of the human mind, observation of the play of the various impulses and sentiments. Shaftesbury is the first moralist who distinctly takes psychologic experience as the basis of ethics. Sidgwick, p. 186–87

v. 1 Analogy of Religion
v. 2 Sermons

The famous Analogy is an endeavor to show that, as the particular frame of man reveals a supreme conscience, so the frame of nature shows a moral governor revealed through conscience. He maintains that the facts of observation fall in with the belief that this life is a probationary state where men are, as a matter of fact, under a system of government which encourages virtue as such and discourages vice, and therefore imply the probability that in a future life there will be a complete satisfaction of the claims of justice. With Adam Smith the development of the earlier English ethics closes and at the same time culminates. The psychologic analysis of morals which Hume began, Smith completes with a command of the subject wonderful considering the state of psychology in his age; while at the same time he frees it from the heterogeneous elements of the intellectual ethics, which Hume had failed to master. The moral law is for Kant an a priori law valid prior to and independent of all empirical application. Starting from this standpoint he obtains his formula: "So act that the maxim of thy will might serve at the same time as a principle of universal legislation." Since this law is a priori, and hence independent of the special conditions of its empiric application, it is for Kant a categoric imperative, an unconditional command of duty, which can not be made to depend on any utilitarian or other considerations. Price, Richard. Review of the Principal Questions and Difficulties in Morals. Ed.2. 462p.O. Lond. 1769. Cadell 7/. o.p. 171 P93 e

When we turn to the subject matter of virtue, we find that Price, in comparison with More or Clarke, is decidedly laxer in accepting and stating his ethical first principles; chiefly because he (like Reid and Stewart afterward) appeals to common sense rather than abstract reason as the judge of moral evidence. Sidgwick, p. 215

Reid, Thomas. Philosophical Works, ed. by Sir W. Hamilton. 2v. O. Lond. 1862. Longmans 30/. 192.5 J e

The truth is that the construction of a scientific method of ethics is a matter of no practical moment to Reid, since he holds that "in order to know what is right and what is wrong in conduct, we need only listen to the dictates of conscience when the mind is calm and unruffled." He does, however, expressly recognize that the conscience of an individual may err, and holds that in this case he is morally right in acting in accordance with his erroneous judgment. Sidgwick, p. 219

His account of the moral faculty is, in style and treatment, decidedly superior to Reid's; it is not, indeed, penetrating or profound; but it is a lucid, comprehensive and judicious attempt to put together the elements of truth in the views of preceding writers, including Shaftesbury and Adam Smith, into a harmonious and coherent statement of the results of impartial reflection on the moral consciousness. Substance of the present volume was formerly known in the shape of two separate treatises, Human Nature and De corpore politico.

For Hobbes, the natural moral law consists in a correct weighing of the beneficial or harmful consequences of an act. Mandeville gave great offense by this book, in which a cynical system of morality was made attractive by ingenious paradoxes. Plato's philosophy rests wholly and entirely on an ethical basis. Moreover, his theoretic view of the world is determined by ethical ideas and requirements. Taking his stand on the Socratic law that virtue is knowledge, he makes it his task to give the ethical concept of the good the central position in an all-embracing theory of the universe. Here, in the first instance, the question arises as to how the good itself is to be defined; a question which Socrates had not answered, since he was only concerned in pointing out the good in single instances. The earliest Platonic dialogues are occupied with this question, and the answers given to it vary within the limits of the national way of looking at things. Wundt, p. 10

On the whole there is probably no treatise so masterly as Aristotle's Ethics (Nicomachean) and containing so much close and valid thought, that yet leaves on the reader's mind so strong an impression of dispersive and incomplete work. It is only by dwelling on these defects that we can understand the small amount of influence that his system exercised during the five centuries after his death, in which the schools sprung from Socrates were still predominant in Greco-Roman culture; as compared with the effect which it has had, directly or indirectly, in shaping the thought of modern Europe. Partly, no doubt, the limited influence of the "Peripatetics" (as Aristotle's disciples were called) is to be attributed to that exaltation of the purely speculative life which distinguished the Aristotelian ethics from other later systems, and which was too alien from the common moral consciousness to find much acceptance in an age in which the ethical aims of philosophy had again become paramount. Sidgwick, p. 69

Hume's ethical view was finally stated in his Inquiry into the Principles of Morals (1751) which is at once more popular and more purely utilitarian than his earlier work. I think, however, that Hume's view as to the origin of justice can not easily be understood from the later treatise alone. In the treatise on Human Nature he agrees broadly with Hobbes as to the original connection of justice with self-interest, and holds, like Hobbes, that all its obligations are conditional on the existence of an established social order which it is the individual's interest to maintain. The fundamental position is that every phenomenon has two elements—the formal element, which is time and space; the material element, which is feeling. Under feeling, action is included. Time and space having been treated in a former work, the present completes the subject by offering a logic of feeling and action. To this antithesis of the two inseparable elements of consciousness—namely feeling as the matter, and a cognitive framework or form—the author attributes a capital importance, and it reappears again and again in every fresh discussion. Saturday Rev. 15 Oct. 1870, 30:496

It is an exposition and defense of utilitarianism, with such modifications and expansions of that doctrine as seem to the author to be necessary to its acceptance and influence. "Moral philosophy," he says, "is a science for everybody." Indeed, if it concerns one more than another, it must be the man of the world by whose acceptance or neglect every moral doctrine must at last become fruitful or futile. We have here a work on the first principles of moral philosophy; it is not an attempt to pursue the subject far into its ramifications, nor to apply it to casuistry. Mind, Ap. 1889, 14:278-79

His metaphysics and epistemology are only preparatory and auxiliary to the ethical theory which is to crown the edifice of his system. Not only is a theory of ethics the end and aim of his work, but the ethical atmosphere which pervades it is the real source of his metaphysics. In reality this system is a later growth of scholastic intellectualism in protestant soil. Cudworth, like Hobbes, regards man as a purely rational being. Paulsen, Friedrich. System of Ethics, ed. and tr. from the 4th rev. and enl. ed. by Frank Thilly. 723p. O. N.Y. 1899. Scribner $3. Bowdoin 170 P281 e

Professor Paulsen's work in many parts is masterly, rich in profound and fruitful thoughts and finely felt observations; and we must say that in spite of all objections which may be brought against it, it is one of the best German works in ethics. G. von Gizycki in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1890, 1:125

STATE ETHICS

Citizenship

MacCunn, John. Ethics of Citizenship. 148p.D. Glasg.1896. Maclehose 2/ Bowdoin 320 M13 e

This is a timely book. When we are being flooded in response to a popular demand with handbooks on the duties of citizenship, it is well to have the subject treated from a wider point of view by so competent a writer as Professor MacCunn has shown himself to be. J: H: Muirhead in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1894, 5:120

Duties of public officers

Bluntschli, Johann Kaspar. Theory of the State. 1885. p.495–518. Bowdoin 320.1 B62 e

Published by Clarendon Press, 518 p. O, 12/6.

A standard German work. Indicates the relation between the state and its servants, the liberty of acceptance or refusal of office, and the obligations of an official to the community.

Church and state

Schaff, Philip, D. D. Church and State in the United States; or, The American Idea of Religious Liberty and its Practical Effects, with official documents. 161p. O. N. Y. 1888. Scribner $1.50. (Amer. Hist. Ass'n Papers, v.2, no. 4) Bowdoin 277.3 e

Discusses that part of the Constitution which protects us from the despotism of a state church, and guarantees to us the free exercise and enjoyment of religion, as an inherent, inviolable and inalienable right of every man. Book, p. 5

Toynbee, Arnold. The Ideal Relation of Church and State. (see his Lectures on the Industrial Revolution. 1887. p.231–39) Bowdoin 330 T66 e

Published by Longmans, 256p. O, 10/6.
Would substitute for the compulsory and older bonds between church and state, spiritual ones, making Christianity consist of a disposition of the mind.

Peace and war

Luther, Martin. Can Soldiers be Christians? (see Open Court, Sep. 1899, 13:525–45) Bowdoin 211 Op2 e

For a theoretic discussion from the religious point of view of the justification of warfare in general, the little pamphlet of Luther, Can Soldiers be Christians, is unsurpassed to this day. It has been admirably translated into English by Prof. W. H. Carruth. F. W. Holls in Ruemelin's Politics and the Moral Law, p. 124

Ruemelin, Gustav. Politics and the Moral Law, tr. from the German by Rudolf Tombo, ed. by F. W. Holls. 125p. D. N.Y. 1901. Macmillan 75c n. Bowdoin 172 R86 e

Shows that in the historical development of politics and of the moral law there is a continual mutual rapprochement and that the fundamental basis of international ethics is the moral sense of the people themselves.

Sumner, Charles. The True Grandeur of Nations. (see his Works. 1875–83. 1:1–132) Bowdoin 308 Su62 e

Published by Lee, 15v. O, $45, $3 a volume; also published separately, 75c.
An animated account of the horrors of war. Shows that war does not secure its professed object in determining justice between contending nations.

Trueblood, B. F. The Federation of the World. 162p. D. Bost. 1899. Houghton $1. Bowdoin 341 T76 e

Lectures delivered before the Meadville Theological School in 1897, on the Adin Ballou foundation. Aims to show that a federation of the race ought to exist and that war ought to be abolished.

FAMILY ETHICS

Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich. The Family. (see his Philosophy of Right. 1896. p.164–85)

Establishes the family on a monogamic foundation and shows that marriage is essentially an ethical relation, that provision for a common interest within the family takes on an ethical aspect and that the ethical or social dismemberment of the family must occur only when children have grown to be free personalities.

Mackenzie, John Stuart. The Family. (see his Introduction to Social Philosophy. 1890. p.315–19) Bowdoin 301 M19 e

Points out the danger of exclusive forms of association within the family and urges that the family life be considered as a preparation for a more complete form of union within the community.

Marriage and divorce

Convers, Duncan. Marriage and Divorce in the United States; as they are and as they ought to be. 266p. D. Phil. 1889. Lippincott $1.50/ Bowdoin 347.6 C76 e

Written to show that marriage and divorce are in an unsatisfactory condition in the United States. Opposes divorce.

Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich. Philosophy of Right. 1896. p.166–74. Bowdoin e

Rejects the view that marriage is a mere physical union and the view of Kant that it is a civil contract, as well as a third view that it is based on love, and defines it anew as a legal ethical love.

Duties of husband and wife

Gray, George Zabriskie. Husband and Wife; or, The Theory of Marriage and its Consequences, with an introd. by Rt. Rev. F. D. Huntington. 132p.D. Bost. 1885. Houghton $1. Bowdoin e

An exposition of marriage from the standpoint of the church, with the obligations that it imposes, not of mutual consideration and kindness merely, in fulfilling a contract, but of protection on one side and deference on the other.

Duties of children

Adler, Felix. Moral Instruction of Children. 270p. D. N.Y. 1892. (Internat. Educ. Ser. no. 21) Appleton $1.50. Bowdoin 377.2 Ad5 e

Both in system and in presentation it is thoughtful, sympathetic and practical. The book is not a manual for class use. It will be most valuable for those teachers who seek guidance but do not care for specific directions. Its great merit lies in its suggestiveness. Paul H. Hanus in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Jan. 1893, 3:254

Everett, Charles Carroll. Ethics for Young People. 185p.D. Bost. 1891. Ginn 60c. Bowdoin 170 Ev2 e

Has the advantage of joining a great deal of picturesqueness and grace with suggestiveness and depth. The illustrations employed are often very attractive. The style is crystal clear. The volume ought surely to set a number of young people thinking. Josiah Royce in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Ap. 1892, 2:384

Masters and servants

Tolstoi, Lyof Nikolaievitch, count. Master and Man, tr. by A. H. Beaman, with an introd. by W. D Howells. 165p. D. N.Y. 1895. Appleton 75c. Bowdoin 891.73 T58m e

He teaches here as everywhere, that no one can be happy to or for himself but only in serving another at his need. Introd. preface, p. 10

PROFESSIONAL AND BUSINESS ETHICS

Hale, Edward Everett, D. D. What Career; ten papers on the choice of a vocation and the use of time. 271p. D. Bost. 1879. Roberts (now Little) $1.25. Bowdoin 174 H13 e

Contents: The Leaders Lead; The Specialties; Noblesse oblige; The Mind's Maximum; A Theological Seminary; Character; Responsibilities of Young Men; Study outside School; The Training of Men; Exercise.

Hamerton, Philip Gilbert. The Intellectual Life. 455p. D. Bost. 1873. Roberts $2. Bowdoin 374 H17 e

Now published by Little, $1.50n..

I have written for all classes, in the conviction that the intellectual life is easily within the reach of every one who earnestly desires it. Preface p. 9. Written in the form of letters.

Hubbard, Elbert. A Message to Garcia. unp. nar.O. N.Y.1900. Distributed free by the N. Y. C. R.R. (Four Track Ser. no. 25) Bowdoin 174 H86 e Appeared originally in the Philistine, Mar. 1899. Presents in a vigorous way the demand in the business world for promptness and obedience. A protest against careless and half-hearted work.

Clerical ethics

Liddon, Henry Parry, D.D. The Moral Groundwork of Clerical Training. (see his Clerical Life and Work. 1894. p.73-92) Bowdoin e

Published by Longmans, 377p. O. $2.

Sermon preached at the anniversary festival of Cuddleston College, June 10, 1873.

Takes issue with a school of thinkers who regard intellectual enterprise as the only requisite for religious teaching and adds to it the vital element of moral earnestness and enthusiasm.

Medical ethics

Mitchell, Silas Weir, M. D. Doctor and Patient. 177p. D. Phil. 1888. Lippincott $1.50.

Published also by Pentland, 6/.

Deals with the mutual relation of the physician and patient with a view to showing the physician's duty toward his patient. Reviewed in Nation, 5 Ap. 1888, 46:288

Legal ethics

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole. Moral Compromise in the Law. (see his Map of Life. 1899. p.101-12) Bowdoin 170 L49 e

Published by Longmans, 328p. D, $2.

Deals with the moral position of an advocate and his relation to his client.

Business ethics

Smiles, Samuel. Men of Business. (see his Self-help. n.d. p.294-320) Bowdoin 374 Sm43 e

Enumerates with considerable fulness and illustration the qualities essential for success in the business world.

Speculation

Hubbard, George H. Ethics of Speculation. (see New Englander, Jan. 1889, 50:43-51) Bowdoin 051 N421 e

Shows how the business of the speculator grows out of a desire to be hastily rich, and that the only legitimate wealth is gained by some means of production. Classes speculation and gambling together.

Gambling

Mackenzie, W. Douglas. Ethics of Gambling. (see Contemporary Rev. Aug. 1891, 60:220-33) Bowdoin 052 C76 e

Maintains (1) that to deal with property on the principle of chance is immoral, (2) that to resign one's manhood on a mere chance is a dishonor to one's nature, and (3) that there is involved in the deed a relation to one's neighbor which is outside all thinkable moral relations.

Oliphant, James. Ethics of Gambling. (see Westminster Rev. May 1892, 137:518-27) Bowdoin 052 W52 e

Takes the view that there are certain advantages, such as accuracy in thought and statement, to be derived from gambling, but that all these are sought at a very serious risk.

Compact and promise

Janet, Paul. Promises and Contracts. (see his Elements of Morals. 1884. p.88-92) Columbia 170 J25 e

Examines the nature of a promise and states certain undeniable exceptions, and in like manner the conditions of contracts and the interpretation regarding obscure clauses.

Employers and employed

Gladden, Washington. Working People and their Employers. 241p.D. N.Y. 1885. Funk $1. (Standard Lib. no. 132) Bowdoin 331 G45 e

Addresses to workingmen. Chapter 8 on the "Duties of Employers" points out that the tendency is to separate capitalist and laborer and contends that the employer has an obligation toward his employees in substituting a personal for an impersonal relation.

Mallock, William Hurrell. Labour and the Popular Welfare 357p. D. Lond. 1896. Black 3/6. Bowdoin 331 M29 e

Published also by Macmillan, 90c.

Written from the capitalist's standpoint. After showing the beneficial results that the industrial system has secured and is securing for labor, the author concludes that the attitude of the laborer toward his employer should be one of acquiescence and not of revolt.

ETHICS OF AMUSEMENT.

Moxom, Philip Stafford. Ethics of Amusements. (see his Aim of Life. 1894. p.230–50) Bowdoin e

Published by Little, 300p. D, $1.

Indicates the necessity for amusement as well as its subordination to higher ends in a well ordered life.

Theater

Göthe, Johann Wolfgang von. Wilhelm Meister's Apprenticeship and Travels. 1851. 1:74-81. Bowdoin 832.62 T5 e

Published by Houghton 2v. D, $3.

The theater has often been at variance with the pulpit; they ought not, I think, to quarrel; how much is it to be wished that in both the celebration of nature and of God were intrusted to none but men of noble minds. Book, 1:84-85

Novel reading

Helps, Sir Arthur, anon. Fiction. (see his Friends in Council. 1861. 1:89-101) Bowdoin 824.84 O e

Published by Lane, 4v. in 2, each $1.50 n.

Points out the merit of fiction in creating sympathy and shows the danger, to which the reader is always exposed, of adopting writers of low ideals.

SEXUAL ETHICS

Chastity

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole. History of European Morals. 1870. 2:298-303. Bowdoin 170.9 L49 e

States the rigorous social laws for violation of chastity and shows their justification in the religious feeling on the subject and in the general interests of society.

Celibacy

Thwing, Charles Franklin Mrs C. F. (Butler.) The Family and the Church, Catholic and Protestant. (see their The Family. 1887. p.73-90) Bowdoin 173 T42 e

Published by Lee, 213p. O, $2.
Shows historically the immoralities consequent on celibacy among the clergy and its evil effects on the family, and also how it strikes at marriage, which is the basis of the family as an institution.

SOCIAL ETHICS.

Eliot, Charles William. The Happy Life. (see his American Contributions to Civilization. 1897. p.243-73) Bowdoin 814.49 El4 e

Published by Century, 387p. O, $2.
Address delivered at the Woman's College of Baltimore, Nov. 7, 1895.
Happiness must be conscious, considerate and consistent with habits of observing, reading and reflecting. Book, p. 245

Hilty, Karl. Happiness, essays on the meaning of life; tr. by F. G. Peabody. 154p.D. N.Y. 1903. Macmillan $1.25 n. 170.4 H56 e

The philosophy of life which he teaches is wrought out of large experience, both of academic and political affairs, and that which draws readers to the author is his capacity to maintain in the midst of important duties of public service an unusual detachment of desire and interior quietness of mind. His short essays are the Meditations of Marcus Aurelius, told in the language of modern life; the Imitation of Christ, expressed with the academic reserve of a modern gentleman. F. G. Peabody, preface p.7

Spencer, Herbert. Ethics of Social Life. (see his Principles of Ethics. 1893. 2: 261-433) Bowdoin 171.7 Sp31 e

Published by Appleton, 2v. O, $4.
Includes "Negative Beneficence" and "Positive Beneficence."

Veracity

Paulsen, Friedrich. Veracity. (see his System of Ethics. 1899. p.664-712) Bowdoin 170 P281 e

An extended account of veracity, viewing it first on its negative side, expressed in the formula, "Thou shalt not lie," and then on its positive side, which is expressed by the formula, "Serve thy neighbor with the truth."

Dress

Hyde, William DeWitt, D.D. Dress. (see his Practical Ethics. 1892. p.19-24) Bowdoin 170.2 H99 e

Published by Holt, 208p. D, 80c.
Shows that it is a duty to be well dressed, with its attendant reward, respectability, and its attendant temptation, vanity.

Wealth and rank

Higginson, Thomas Wentworth. Concerning All of Us. 210p.S. N.Y. 1893. (Amer. Essayists Ser.) Harper $1. Bowdoin 814.49 H53 e

Comments on social life and customs.

Friendship

Bacon, Francis, viscount St Albans. Of Friendship. (see his Essays. 1879. p.143-53) Bowdoin 824.3 B131 e

Published by Little, 360p. S, $1; o. p.
If he have not a friend he may quit the stage. Book, p. 153

Philanthropy

Bosanquet, Bernard. Two Modern Philanthropists. (see his Essays and Addresses. 1891. p.1-23) Bowdoin 824.89 B65 e

Published by Sonnenschein, 199p. O, 2/6.
Short sketches of George Moore and Jean Leclaire, with some discussion of the nature of charity.

Mackenzie, John Stuart. Introduction to Social Philosophy. 1890. p.320-22. Bowdoin 301 M19 e

Discusses the relation of philanthropy to society and designates the most helpful kind of charity as that which enables the recipient, in turn, to help himself.

Social obligations

Hyde, William De Witt, D.D. Society. (see his Practical Ethics. 1892. p.167-78) Bowdoin 170.2 H99 e

Published by Holt, 208p. D, 80c.
Emphasis is laid on the duty of each person to take part in the common life of society and to have that regard for the interests of others which in a general way is expressed by cooperation and toward individuals issues in the form of politeness and courtesy.

TEMPERANCE

Calkins, Raymond. Substitutes for the Saloon, an investigation made for the Committee of Fifty. 397p.D. Bost. 1901. Houghton $1.30. Bowdoin e

A strictly practical inquiry undertaken in a scientific fashion and prosecuted with great care and thoroughness. It assumes that no attack on the saloon can hope for permanent effectiveness which does not take into account the contribution of the saloon to sociability.

Gustafson, Axel Carl Johan. The Foundation of Death, a study of the drink question. Ed.3. 598p.D. Bost. 1885. Ginn $2. Bowdoin 178.1 G971 e

Published also by Hodder, 5/.
An exhaustive study from the historical, medical, physiologic and moral standpoints.

Lee, F. R. Textbook of Temperance. 312p.D. Rockland Me. 1869. Vose $1.25. o.p. Bowdoin e

From the teetotal standpoint. Comprehensive.

Wheeler, Edward Jewett. Prohibition, the Principle, the Policy, the Party. Ed. 5. 277p.D. N.Y. 1894. Funk 75c. Bowdoin e

The best American summary of the case for prohibition. Sonnenschein's Reader's Guide, p. 200

Tobacco

Hyde, William De Witt, D.D. Practical Ethics. 1892. p.16-17. Bowdoin 170.2 H99 e

Published by Holt, 208p. D, 80c.
Points out the evil results of using tobacco in early life.

Opium

De Quincey, Thomas. Confessions of an English Opium Eater; with introd. note by William Sharp. 275p.D. Lond. 1886. Scott 1/. (Camelot Classics, Bowdoin 824.81 O1 e

The narrative, which is presented with all the grace and effectiveness of a man of letters, is addressed to the opium eater. De Quincey shows that after using opium with its attendant pains and discomforts for 17 years it may still be renounced.

Dudgeon, John, M.D. Evils of the Use of Opium. (see Shanghai Conference. Records. 1890. p.314-54)

A valuable essay. J. S. Dennis, Christian Missions and Social Progress, 1:350

OTHER ETHICAL TOPICS

Animals' rights

Evans, Edward Payson. Ethical Relations of Man to Beast. (see his Evolutional Ethics and Animal Psychology. 1898. p.82-104) Columbia 591.5 P7 e

Published by Appleton, 386p. D, $1.25.

Attacks the anthropocentric psychology and ethics, and argues for more humanity toward animals. The author presents a résumé of the best thought on the subject and strengthens his own position by the temperateness of his reasoning.

Salt, Henry Stephens. Animals' Rights considered in Relation to Social Progress, with a bibliographical appendix; also an essay on "Vivisection in America" by Albert Leffingwell. 176p. D. N. Y. 1894. Macmillan 75c. Columbia 179.3 Sa31 e

English price 2/.

This little book does not pretend to be a theoretic discussion of animal rights, but only a statement of practical reasons for modifying both our treatment of animals and our habits of using them for food. J. H. Hyslop in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, July 1895, 5:532

Character

Bryant, Mrs Sophie. Short Studies in Character. 247p. D. Lond. 1894. Sonnenschein 4/6. (Ethical Lib. no. 2) Bowdoin 170 B84 e

Published also by Macmillan, $1.10.

A plea for the use of ideas in the formation of character, and the use of character, in the sense of the conscience, in the formation of ideas. The first of these appears most explicitly in an earnest chapter on "The Intellectual Factor in Moral Education" but it is as emphatically urged elsewhere, specially in the quite pronounced section of "The Influence of Ideals." John MacCunn in the Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Jan. 1895, 5:251

Smiles, Samuel. Self-help, with illustrations of character, conduct and perseverance. 447p. D. N. Y. n.d. Harper $1. Bowdoin 374 Sm43 e

Its main value consists in an enforcement of the distinct principle that unless there be stimulus to exertion from within, help is of little use, and may in reality be enfeebling and hurtful. Chambers's Jour. 24 Dec. 1859, 32:413

Included in Sir John Lubbock's list of 100 books.

Cruelty to children

Waugh, Benjamin. Prevention of Cruelty to Children. (see Dublin Rev. Jan. 1892, 110:140-51) Bowdoin 052 D85 e

Written by the founder of the "National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children." Provides some account of what the society has accomplished and the need for further work.

Dueling

Janet, Paul. Elements of Morals. 1884. p.58-60. Columbia 170 J25 e

Published by Barnes, 353p. D, $1.25.
Takes the view that the duel is not a legitimate mode of self-defense, and that ethically it is indefensible because it allows each to become his own judge.

Ethical science

Carus, Paul. The Ethical Problem, three lectures on ethics as a science. Ed.2. 351p.D. Chic. 1899. Open Court Pub. Co. 50c. (Religion of Science Lib. no. 35) Columbia e

The second edition contains the entire controversy that was called forth by the first edition. Points out the intimate connection of ethics with morality and shows also that ethics as a science can not be derived from mere sentiment.

Happiness

Hamerton, Philip Gilbert. The Quest of Happiness. 187p. D. Bost. 1897. Roberts $2. Harvard 171.4 H17 e

Now published by Little, $1.50.
The thought expressed is that all unhappiness is caused by the non-exercise of natural faculties.

Lubbock, Sir John, bart. Pleasures of Life. Ed. 3. 191p. D Lond. 1887. Macmillan 3/6. Bowdoin 824.89 L961p

The tone is serious; there is much from the old sources, the great moralists of the past; but one feels in it all that best of the reader's pleasures, continuous contact with a cultivated mind and a kindly nature. Nation, 1 Sep. 1887, 45:178

Pessimism

Hartmann, Eduard von. Philosophy of the Unconscious, speculative results according to the inductive method of physical science; authorized tr. by W. C. Coupland. 3v. O. N. Y.1884. Macmillan $7.50. Bowdoin 193.9 e

Published also by Paul, T.T. & Co. 31/6.
The essential results consist in positing an unconscious principle, which is the unifying principle of both matter and life, and which, therefore, in the latter becomes conscious, and finally self-conscious. The third volume goes on to show that consciousness is in the main a source of misery. Hartmann traces in a very suggestive way the illusive nature of happiness through the three stages where mankind hoped for happiness in this world, then in the next world and finally in the future of this world. Athenaeum, 14 June 1884, 1:753

Sully, James. Pessimism, a history and a criticism. 477p. O. Lond. 1877. King 14/. Harvard 149.6 Sus e

The press

Kelly, Edmond. The Problem of Education. (see his Evolution and Effort. 1900. p.216-36) Bowdoin 301 K29 e

Published by Appleton, 293p. D, $1.25.
Points out the sensational and partizan nature of the contemporary press and shows that the problem of providing accurate news, free from scandal and partizanship, is mainly an ethical one.

Suicide

Morselli, Enrico Agostino. Suicide. 388p.illus.D. N.Y.1882. Appleton $1.75. (Internat. Sci. Ser.) 179.7 M83 e

Published also by Paul, T.T. & Co. 5/.
He briefly maintains that "Suicide is an effect of the struggle for existence and of human selection, which works according to the laws of evolution among civilized people," and in conclusion urges that the only way to cure the evil is to develop in man the power of well ordering sentiments and ideas by which to reach a certain end in life—in short, to give force and energy to the moral character. Mind, Jan. 1882, 7:151

Schopenhauer, Arthur. On Suicide. (see his Studies in Pessimism. 1891. p.43-50) Bowdoin e

Published by Sonnenschein, 142p. D, 2/6; Macmillan 90c.
Takes the view that there is "nothing in the world to which every man has a more unassailable title than his own life and person," and that suicide is not a crime but a mistake.

Sunday question

Gilfillan, Rev. James. The Sabbath viewed in the Light of Reason, Revelation and History, with sketches of its literature. 635p. D. N. Y. n.d. Amer. Tract Soc. $1.25. Bowdoin 263 G39 e

An extended discussion of the importance of the Sabbath as a sacred day and one worthy of increased respect both as a human and as a divine institution.

Tyndall, John. The Sabbath. (see his New Fragments. 1892. p.1-46) Bowdoin 504 P2 e

Published by Appleton. 500p. O, $2.
Argues forcibly for a less rigorous observance of the Sabbath; an exhortation to put Sundays to better account, in the way of cultivating nature and art interests.

Vivisection

Cobbe, Francis Power. Mr Lowe and the Vivisection Act. (see Contemporary Rev. Feb. 1877, 29:335-47) Bowdoin 052 qC76 e

Maintains that, whatever the value of the scientific discovery which must be obtained by vivisection, it is morally forbidden.

Leffingwell, Albert. The Vivisection Question. 267p.O. New Haven 1901. Tuttle $1.25. Bowdoin e

Essays and speeches advocating the prevention of abuse of vivisection by legal regulation.

Paget, Sir James. Vivisection: its pains and its uses. (see Nineteenth Century, Dec 1881, 10:920-30) Bowdoin 052 N62 e es that as few obstacles as possible should be thrown into the way ıetent persons engaged in research, and contends also that vivisection t inflict more pain than many sports which are generally encouraged.

Samuel. Ethics of Vivisection. (see Contemporary Rev. 1882, 41:812-18) Bowdoin 052 qC76 e ıs that "the selection of the so called standard of 'morality,' or the of animals' by which to measure the permissibility of physiologic ıentation, is undeniably a prejudgment of the real point at issue,"

A SELECTION FROM THE BEST BOOKS OF 1904 WITH NOTES

PREFATORY NOTE

To the Librarian

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1904, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries that can buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including some reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy careful consideration by libraries that can buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. It is thought best to inform the smaller libraries about some books which would be of high practical value to them, though probably too expensive to be bought from the ordinary fund. Special circumstances may sometimes justify buying such a book at the sacrifice of several cheaper ones. Occasionally, too, some generous friend or local club expresses a wish to make the town library a substantial gift. If the librarian can make prompt and definite suggestions it is an advantage to the community and the satisfaction of the benefactor is materially increased. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system. For convenience of libraries wishing to use them, Library of Congress printed catalogue card serial numbers are given in note type; also references to reviews.

The following from the Journal of New Jersey Libraries, October 1903, applies equally to New York:

Look at books before buying them, if possible. Advertisements and reviews are both untrustworthy, especially where any library's special needs are to be considered.

Information about importing books, secondhand books, and even about new books which are under consideration, is always cheerfully given, when asked, by the larger libraries in the State.

Do not buy encyclopedias while in process ofpublication. They are aggravations until complete, and can always be bought more cheaply than they are at first offered a few months after publication. Read Eugene Field's story of the "Cyclopedy," and take warning. The same rule holds as to all subscription books. Avoid them. Shun books in parts. They cost more than they are worth to a library. They turn up in secondhand stores a few months after completion at low prices. Deluded purchasers find them white elephants and sell them. Finest Orations, Noblest Essays, Royal Flim Flams, Huge Anthologies, and the like all come to the secondhand man. Get them of him, if you must. In a small library they are generally almost useless. In subscription books, cases like this are not uncommon. Maspero wrote several large and learned volumes, in French on Egypt and Chaldea. They were translated and published in three or four volumes in England, costing libraries in this country about $5 each. An American publisher reprints them in 12 small volumes with a few additional colored cuts, on heavier paper and in larger type and offers them through agents for $84—and libraries buy them!

Do not buy "sets" or complete editions of authors. Buy the volumes you need and as you need them. A complete set always includes several volumes you do not need.

Specify the edition you wish of standard books when you can, unless you find a bookseller able and willing to select them wisely for you.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study, to justify their purchase by the school.

To the Librarian:

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in 1905, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are indicated: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries that can buy 50 books; and 50 marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including some reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy careful consideration by libraries that can buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. It is thought best to inform the smaller libraries about some books which would be of high practical value to them, though probably too expensive to be bought from the ordinary fund. The political history of England edited by Hunt and Poole, to be complete in 12v. at $28 n, the two handsome cyclopedic volumes entitled A study of the artist's way of working in the various handicrafts and arts of design, by Russell Sturgis, and Scott's Voyage of the Discovery are illustrations in this list. Special circumstances may sometimes justify buying such a work at the sacrifice of several cheaper ones. Occasionally, too, some generous friend or local club expresses a wish to make the town library a substantial gift. If the librarian can make prompt and definite suggestions it is an advantage to the community and the satisfaction of the benefactor is materially increased.

The following from the Journal of New Jersey Libraries, October 1903, applies equally to New York:

Look at books before buying them, if possible. Advertisements and reviews are both untrustworthy, especially where any library's special needs are to be considered.

Information about importing books, secondhand books, and even about new books which are under consideration, is always cheerfully given, when asked, by the larger libraries in the State.

Do not buy encyclopedias while in process of publication. They are aggravations until complete, and can always be bought more cheaply than they are at first offered a few months after publication. Read Eugene Field's story of the "Cyclopedy," and take warning. The same rule holds as to all subscription books. Avoid them. Shun books in parts. They cost more than they are worth to a library. They turn up in secondhand stores a few months after completion at low prices. Deluded purchasers find them white elephants and sell them. Finest Orations, Noblest Essays, Royal Flim Flams, Huge Anthologies, and the like all come to the secondhand man. Get them of him, if you must. In a small library they are generally almost useless. In subscription books, cases like this are not uncommon. Maspero wrote several large and learned volumes, in French, on Egypt and Chaldea. They were translated and published in three or four volumes in England, costing libraries in this country about $5 each. An American publisher reprints them in 12 small volumes with a few additional colored cuts, on heavier paper and in larger type and offers them through agents for $84—and libraries buy them!

Do not buy "sets" or complete editions of authors. Buy the volumes you need and as you need them. A complete set always includes several volumes you do not need. Specify the edition you wish of standard books when you can, unless you find a bookseller able and willing to select them wisely for you.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to smaller public libraries it will also be of much service to schools. Not all the books listed, however, are recommended for school use. There are some books in fiction which have not enough positive value either as literature or as a spur to historical study, to justify their purchase for a school, yet which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers. Nor is such a book as The plum tree, a story of political graft conveying a stern lesson to mature minds, appropriate for boys and girls, whose training in political morality might better be carried on through more direct means. All under the heading "Juvenile" are recommended for those school libraries which undertake to provide wholesome entertainment as well as useful information.

372.3 Brown, E. V. Stories of childhood and nature. Globe Sch. Bk Co. 40c

5-32657 Fifty-nine sketches, stories and poems about the life of out-of-doors, and of far-away lands, 17 being original and the rest quoted from excellent sources.

372.4 Baldwin, James. Fairy reader: adapted from Grimm and Andersen. (Eclectic readings) Amer. Bk Co. 35c

5-13176 The fox and the horse, The little fir tree, The ugly duckling, Thumbling, and other stories, in simple words for first reader grade. The preface, generally objectionable, becomes here an excellent Afterword to teachers.

372.4 Grover, E. O. The overall boys: a first reader. Rand 45c

5-3788 With colored drawings similar to her Sunbonnet babies, and those little folks reappear in this story. Unlike most primary readers, this consists of one long story, not numerous short ones.

394 Our holidays, their meaning and spirit: retold from St Nicholas. (Hist. stories) Century 65c n

5-34166 Sketches, stories and verses explaining or illustrating observances of Hallowe'en, Election, Thanksgiving, notable birthdays, Arbor day, etc. Useful, though falling short of expectations roused by title.

398.2 Krout, C. V. "Caroline Brown," pseud. Bold Robin and his forest rangers. Dutton $1.25

5-26925 Some of the adventures of Robinhood and his yeomen, related in quaint style and full of the spirit and atmosphere of forest life. Supplements Pyle's Merry adventures of Robin Hood.

398.2 c Pyle, Howard. Story of the champions of the Round Table. Scribner $2.50 n

5-33971 Contents: The story of Launcelot, The book of Sir Tristram, The book of Sir Percival.

398.2 c Tappan, E. M. The golden goose, and other fairy tales. Houghton $1 5-35790 Six Swedish stories, very like German folk tales in spirit and sometimes in incident. The drawings admirably illustrate the text.

590.3 c Champlin, J. D. Young folks' cyclopaedia of natural history. Holt $2.50

5-12786 Painstaking compilation, alphabetically arranged, giving short account of each animal, its habitat and Latin name. Many woodcuts, index.

641 b Crump, Lucy. Three little cooks. Longmans $1

Two little English children try real cooking on a toy stove, under the supervision of an experienced cook. Thirty receipts in tiny quantities are given at the end.

5-13303 Burrell's Little cook book for a little girl, Estes 75c, is made up of many clearly stated recipes for breakfast, luncheon and dinner dishes, the greater part reprinted from Good Housekeeping.

757 Moore, Mrs N. H. Children of other days: notable pictures of children of various countries and times, after paintings by great masters. Stokes $1.50

5-36126 Thirty-five good reproductions, each provided with a little biographic matter, too effortfully written down to the child's supposed capacity. Objectionably heavy paper has been used in order to improve effect of halftones.

782.2 c McSpadden, J. W. Stories from Wagner. Crowell 60c

5-32690 Told with excellent simplicity and clearness.

Directed primarily to the needs of young people, it is worth the attention of older ones. . . For the nonmusical, as legend and fairy tales, for the young music lover, who has still in anticipation the Wagner music drama, it is a capital little book. Nation, 81:407.

Spec. 95:1041.

790 a Hall, A. N. The boy craftsman: practical and profitable ideas for a boy's leisure hours. Lothrop $2 5-26960 Instructions for indoor and outdoor work and recreation, with suggestions for earning money by small business enterprises. Includes directions for tools and workshop, printing, dark-rooms and circuses, for making doll houses and furniture, log cabins, canvas canoes, cork toys, miniature theaters, etc. Illustrated.

796 Bond, A. R. The Scientific American boy; or, The camp at Willow Clump Island. Munn $2

5-35782 Gives in story form directions which the average boy can follow, for constructing bridges, windmills, water-wheels, tents, camping equipments, snowshoes, sledges, ice-boats etc.

821.08 Blake, K. D. & Alexander, Georgia. Graded poetry readers. 7 no. no.1-6. Maynard 20c ea.

6-14536 Grades 1-6 in 5v. Admirably selected, graded and printed. Ranges wide, from Mother Goose to Shelley, New England Primer to William Blake, Edward Lear to Emerson, Phoebe Cary to Shakspere.

Nation, 81:318.

821.17 c Kelman, J. H. Stories from Chaucer. (Told to the children ser.) Dutton 50c

W6-92 The stories of Arviragus and Dorigen, Palamon and Arcite, the patient Griselda, and Constance, in simple prose which brings out much of the poetic and moral beauty and prepares the way happily for later acquaintance with the originals.

The volumes of this series are attractively printed, illustrated in color, and, though not of equal value, are all worthy of consideration.

821.31 Lang, Jeanie. Stories from the Faerie queen. (Told to the children ser.) Dutton 50c W6-213 Una and the lion; St George and the dragon; Britomart and the magic mirror; The quest of Sir Guyon; Pastorella; Cambell and Triamond; Marinell, the Sea-nymph's son; Florimell and the Witch. For note on series, see Kelman's Stories from Chaucer.

822.33 c Macleod, Mary. Shakespeare story book; with introd. by Sidney Lee. Barnes $1.75

3-16387 Stories of 16 plays, with dialogue in words of dramas. Plots are clearly brought out. Excellent as preparation for the plays, or as a good story book. Reissue of English edition of 1902. Illustrated by Gordon Browne.

Lamb's Tales are perhaps best suited to youngest children; Miss Macleod's versions, to a group a little older; Alice Hoffman's admirable Stories from Shakespeare's plays for children, published separately, Dent 1/n, Dutton 40c n, imply another step in development. These have the outward characteristics of the Temple Shakespeare, with illustrations added. The stories are simply retold, with plentiful extracts from the plays.

Nation, 81:489.

888.8 Rowbotham, F. J. Tales from Plutarch. Crowell 60c

5-26114 Stories of Theseus, Romulus, Fabius and Alcibiades, being developed rather than translated from Plutarch. In good form for the story-teller.

Acad. 67:550; Ath. 1904; 2:729; Nation, 81:449.

914.4 McManus, Blanche (Mrs M. F. Mansfield). Our little French cousin. (Little cousin ser.) Page 60c

5-20772 5-24184 Describes daily life and some happy journeys of little Germaine, daughter of a well-to-do farmer of Normandy. This volume and Our little English cousin (914.2) by same author, are among best of the series.

916 Carpenter, F. G. Africa. (Carpenter's geog. reader) Amer. Bk Co. 60c

5-29092 An imaginary journey from New York through all African countries. Describes physical features, natural resources, people, life and industries. Illustrated.

917.3 a Stone, G. L. & Fickett, Grace. Every day life in the colonies. Heath 40c

5-21801 Graphic stories of early customs, telling of the first New England Christmas, hornbooks, a Puritan sabbath, soap and candle making, a May day celebration, sundials, etc. Arranged for a school reader primarily but excellent for home use.

973 c Lane, Mrs M. A. L. & Hill, Mabel, comp. American history in literature. Ginn 50c

5-35413 Prose and poetry, mainly from standard American authors, on incidents in United States history. Short lists of selections and books for children and teachers appended to each period group.

973.7 b Civil War stories: retold from St Nicholas. (Hist. stories) Century 65c n

5-34175 Stories, many of them true, of the great struggle on land and sea, and the part taken in it by children. This series is specially valuable to libraries not having full set of St Nicholas.

JUVENILE BIOGRAPHY

920.07 Mowry, W. A. & B. S. American pioneers. (America's great men & their deeds) Silver 65c

5-18109 Sketches of Champlain, Penn, Father Marquette, Boone, Kenton, Crockett, Lovejoy, Jefferson, Lincoln, Mann, Armstrong, Mary Lyon, Dorothy Dix, J. B. Gough and others. Illustrated.
